Pre-employment clearances

Eligibility to work in the UK
It is a requirement of the Asylum and Immigration Act 1996 that all employers in the UK take steps to ensure that new employees are eligible to work. Under section 8 of the Act an employer is guilty of a criminal offence if it employs a person subject to immigration control unless that person has been given leave to remain and work in the UK.

The Act provides the employer with a statutory defence if the employer can prove that before the employment began, it checked and recorded certain documents.

Both Cherwell District Council (CDC) and South Northamptonshire Council (SNC) are equal opportunities employers and in order to comply with our employment policy and the Equalities Act, our policy is to treat all applicants equally in complying with the Asylum and Immigration Act. Consequently all external applicants who are invited to interview are asked to bring appropriate documentation.

An employment offer cannot be confirmed until satisfactory evidence has been provided by the applicant.

References
References for successful candidates are normally requested after the interviews. Occasionally it may be necessary to request references before the interviews. All applicants are asked if CDC/SNC is able to request references without further authority from them.

• If the applicant ticks YES, references may be requested prior to interview
• If the applicant ticks NO, references will not be contacted until further authorisation has been obtained. This will not have any detrimental effect.

An employment offer cannot be confirmed until two satisfactory references have been received.

Medical clearance
All medical questionnaires are strictly private and confidential and will only be seen by the CDC/SNC Occupational Health advisor who will confirm if medical clearance can be given.

The Occupational Health advisor may require further medical information from the applicants GP before a decision can be made, in which case the applicant will be kept informed.

An employment offer cannot be confirmed until the applicant is confirmed as fit for employment.

Rehabilitation of offenders
The Rehabilitation of Offenders Act was introduced to ensure that applicants are not discriminated against when applying for jobs if they have been convicted of a criminal offence and have not re-offended for a period of time.

The Act allows certain types of conviction to be treated as “spent” after a certain (variable) period of time. Applicants are no longer legally required to disclose convictions that have been “spent”, unless the role they are applying for is except from the Act. In the case of more serious crime, such as where the sentence is more than 30 months imprisonment, the convictions can never become “spent” and must always be taken into account.

Certain roles may be exempt from the Act to protect vulnerable client groups such as children, young people, the elderly, sick or disabled. In such cases an employer is legally entitled to ask applicants for details of all convictions.

Cautions, reprimands and final warnings are not criminal convictions and are not covered by the Rehabilitation of Offenders Act. They become “spent” immediately and employers may only consider them when appointing to an exempt role.

CDC/SNC is fully committed to equal opportunities in employment and will take all possible steps to ensure that applicants who have criminal records are treated fairly. Having a criminal record will not necessarily bar an applicant from employment but this will depend on the circumstances and background of the offence(s).

All applicants who are offered employment to an exempt post will be subject to a criminal record check from Disclosure and Barring Service (DBS) before the appointment is confirmed. This will include details of cautions, reprimands or final warnings as well as convictions. The Information for Applicants will confirm whether a DBS check is required for the role.

An offer of employment may be withdrawn upon receipt of unsatisfactory clearances. Should this happen the applicant will be given the right to discuss the matter with the recruitment manager and / or a member of Human Resources.

Employees in exempt roles will be subject to a DBS check every three years. CDC/SNC will meet the cost of the check for all successful applicants and any required thereafter.
